

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

An optical recording medium and method of formatting the optical recording medium is disclosed. In the present invention, the location information of the supplementary spare area, if assigned, is reset when the optical recording medium is formatted. The resetting of the location information results in consistency between a file system and a driver of the optical recording medium with respect to the supplementary spare area.